

NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK

Bullard Library gives out awards to youth

In honor of National Library Week, the Bullard Community Library had a "BIG Name the Computers Contest." Above is the winner, Andre Youngblood, with longtime library volunteer, Cora Tomlin. Youngblood, 12, of Flint, and the son of David and Mimi Youngblood won with the following list of names: Charlie Brown, Sally, Snoopy, Woodstock, Schroeder, Lucy and Linus. Andre's prizes included pocket calculator, a State of Texas key ring, a complimentary year's library membership, and a free book of his choice from the FRIENDS' Book Store. Scott Shumate, runner up, of Flint, came up with a names of artists: Titian, El Greco, Michelangelo, Rembrandt, Giotto, Donatello, Ghiberti

Scott's prizes included a mini shoe shine kit, a complimentary year's library membership, and a free book of his choice from the FRIENDS' Book Store. Honorable mentions went to the three entrants who were able to recall the names of all the seven dwarfs: Kristi Garrigan of Flint, Gladys Casper of Tyler, and Carol Martin of Flint, librarian at Bullard High School.

Each of these entrants receives a complimentary year's library membership, and a free book of their choice from the FRIENDS' Book Store.

Zoning

"It's just a supplement to my social security."

Resident Carl King believed that while that might be the case, he was still opposed to any business in the area.

"It was residential when it was developed and we request the commission allow it to stay that way," he said.

Jimmy Cantrell, also opposed to the action, was concerned about property valuation, as well.

"I've lived there since 1980, and I moved there because of the residential zoning," he said.

Mayor Pro Tem - who attended the meeting - spoke about his concerns for the legalities of the move.

"Not only would this set a dangerous precedent, but I think that even if the city were to sign off on it, it still wouldn't be allowed," he said.

Hines said Bullard Heights is a restricted community, and therefore has rules and regulations to follow that usually go above and beyond the city's ordinances.

"We - the council - don't have any authority to override deed restrictions," Hines said.

King said he didn't want anything contentious, and he didn't want to cause hard feelings.

"We want to be good neighbors," King said. "But we also want to protect the neighborhood."

Brazil, his wife and son all took turns speaking - and all basically affirming the same thing. Brazil has already built a 1,500 square foot tin building in which to house his three presses.

"You can't hear the machines," Brazil said. "There won't be any advertising for the business, I just want to continue to serve the few churches that I've been doing work for for years."

"No one will even know it's there."

Commissioners asked Brazil if he could possibly incorporate space into the home they're building for the press, but Brazil said his wife couldn't stand the noise.

Brazil indicated he would follow the request all the way to council.

Commissioner Connie Lyles explained the procedure to the Brazil family.

"We are a review committee," Lyles said. "It's our job to make recommendations to the council."

"But even if we all agreed, you have to remember you're up against deed restrictions."

Bullard City Council will hold its next regular meeting beginning at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 9, at Bullard City Hall.

The public is encouraged to attend. For more information, call 903-894-7223.

To undergo a neurosurgical procedure is to entrust your life—and your quality of life—to the neurosurgeon who performs it. That's why the ETMC Neurological Institute is proud to list these remarkable neurosurgeons among its members. Having studied and trained in some of the nation's most prestigious medical programs, they conduct research and publish in their areas of interest; teach and lecture nationally and internationally; and perform hundreds of advanced neurosurgical procedures every year. Working as one, they are advancing care in the field and bringing the latest treatments and technology to the people of East Texas.

DR. PAUL DETWILER trained at Barrow Neurological Institute with fellowships in spine surgery and cerebrovascular and skull base tumor surgery. He is board certified. His clinical interests include aneurysms, arteriovenous malformations, CyberKnife® stereotactic radiosurgery, skull base tumors, and spinal surgery.

DR. THOMAS GRAHM completed fellowships in vascular/skull base surgery at Barrow Neurological Institute. He is board certified. His areas of interest include aneurysms, arteriovenous malformations, skull base tumors, CyberKnife® stereotactic radiosurgery, and spinal surgery.

DR. JON LEDLIE trained at the University of South Carolina at Charleston. He is board certified. His areas of interest include minimally invasive and complex spinal surgery, vertebral body compression fractures and CyberKnife® stereotactic radiosurgery.

DR. MARK RENFRO trained at the University of Florida. He is board certified. His areas of interest are cerebrovascular disease, skull base tumors, CyberKnife® stereotactic radiosurgery, deep brain stimulation, and complex spinal surgery.

DR. BRIAN SNELL completed a fellowship in complex spinal surgery at the Medical College of Wisconsin. He is board eligible. His areas of interest include aneurysms, arteriovenous malformations, deep brain stimulation, minimally invasive and complex spinal surgery, and CyberKnife® stereotactic radiosurgery.
