Along with the project boards their inventions were displayed at the Invention Convention for parents and guests to see.

A panel of judges came together and selected first, second and third place winners for the most creative invention.

Jace Evans was awarded third place as the inventor of "Cool Buns, Hot Buns Seat Cushions." The cushions had a custom fabric covering with a pocket to insert heating or cooling packs which made them convenient to carry along to sporting events or any occasion.

Daniel Chambless created "The Soccer Skill Laser Shoe" which gained him second place. Chambless discovered that by fastening a laser pointer to a soccer kleet on the dominate foot the laser will serve to guide where the foot contacts the ball; to make each kick more accurate.

Russell Strickland creator of "Kid Glasses" was awarded first place for his invention.

Kid glasses are equipped with small lights on each side and removable magnifying lenses. The concept was created to not disturb others by turning on the lights if someone wants to read.

The president of Kelly Community Federal Credit Union was at the event to award the boys for their accomplishments.

Strickland received a $100 Kidicate, which is similar to a savings bond although it has a better interest rate.

Chambless received $50, and Evans $25 each in gold presidential coins.
